Board Appointment Policy for State Owned Corporations and Other Commercial Government Businesses

Purpose

This policy outlines the board appointment process for State Owned Corporations (SOCs) and other commercial government businesses including Public Financial Corporations (PFCs).

The policy seeks to:

- reflect NSW Government policy and current practice in board governance
 - provide transparency, consistency and candidate care in the merit-based selection of board chairs and directors.

Overview

SOC and commercial governing boards perform important governance and advisory functions for government businesses. Government should exercise diligence in appointing chairs and directors with the right skills, experience and knowledge for the functions they will perform.

The policy accords with the Public Service Commissioner's Appointment Standards for Boards and Committees in the NSW Public Sector (Appointment Standards). The Appointment Standards are largely principles-based. They provide the appointing Minister¹ with guidance on determining the characteristics of appointees and outline the essential elements of the assessment process, which is fair, transparent and documented.

The board appointment process outlined in this policy follows the *NSW Government Boards and Committees Guidelines*² (Guidelines) process for appointment of directors and the Cabinet consideration of appointments.

This policy supplements the Appointment Standards and the Guidelines, providing additional guidance to ensure an effective and consistent board appointment process in the context of SOC and commercial governing boards.

¹ Reference to 'appointing Minister' is also taken to mean 'appointing Ministers' where more than one Minister is responsible for director appointment.

² M2013-06 NSW Government Boards and Committees Guidelines (updated September 2015).

Application

This policy applies to SOCs and other commercial businesses with governing boards where the Treasurer is an appointing Minister and/or where a Minister has asked Treasury to manage their appointments (i.e. Minister for Finance). The applicable businesses, at the time of publication, are included in Appendix 1 (Applicable Businesses).

This policy does not apply to:

- an ex-officio position on a board (such as the chief executive officer or departmental Secretary) where the legislative provisions state that officer is to be a director of the board, or
- appointments made by the appointing Minister on recommendation of an independent body or organisation as required under legislation (i.e. employee representatives).

This policy applies to new board appointment and re-appointment processes commencing from the date the policy is published.

Related legal obligations

The power of Ministers to appoint directors to the board of a SOC or other commercial government business is specified in its enabling legislation.

The business' enabling legislation typically establishes the board and will specify how a director is to be appointed to the board.

For SOCs, section 20J of the State Owned Corporations Act 1989 (SOC Act) provides that there is to be a board of directors. Further requirements for the constitution and procedure of boards are set out in Schedule 8 of the SOC Act. An individual SOC's process for appointment may vary from the SOC Act where its enabling legislation provides otherwise.

See Appendix 2 for director appointment legislative provisions across Applicable Businesses.

Summary of Requirements

Mandatory

Board appointments for Applicable Businesses must comply with the following requirements:

1. Tenure for board directors will be two terms of three years each, unless otherwise recommended.
2. A board skills matrix covering all directors must be provided to Treasury at the planning phase of the recruitment process.
3. The appointment process must have regard to any gender or other diversity targets established by the Government.
4. The appointing Minister must approve the strategy and approach for candidate identification.
5. The appointing Minister must approve the Board Candidate Assessment Committee before the panel is convened.
6. Probity checks must be completed by the business before Cabinet consideration of the Minister's proposed appointee, with written confirmation to Treasury of the outcome.

1. Board appointments process

This policy outlines both policy expectations and governance aspects of the board appointment process managed by Treasury for the appointing Minister.

Details of the specific process steps and the responsibilities of the parties involved is outlined in:

- Practice Guide 1: New director appointments
- Practice Guide 2: Chair/Director re-appointments
- Practice Guide 3: Chair appointments.

The practice guides provide step-by-step guidance to ensure a consistent and timely approach to board appointments. The process is structured around the three phases of the board appointment process:

2. Policy expectations

These policy expectations give clarity on best practice corporate governance that contributes to high performing boards and provides assurance to the appointing Minister that the board is best placed to govern the business.

2.1 Board tenure

Mandatory

1. Tenure for board directors will be two terms of three years each, unless otherwise recommended.

Guidance

A director's tenure will generally be for two terms of three years each. This allows for periodic refresh to bring in new directors with different ideas and perspective, contributes to improved outcomes in the board's oversight of the business and limits 'group thinking' which could constrain the effective decision making of the board.

There may be circumstances where one or more additional terms or a longer appointment term is appropriate. For any re-appointments beyond two terms, the advice to the appointing Minister should include justification as to why this is recommended.

Situations where a third term or a longer appointment term may be considered include where:

- a director transitions into the role of Chair
- it would provide stability or maintain continuity during a period of board refresh, or
- the director's expertise is specifically required to support the business.

The Chair and/or board nomination committee should provide Treasury with advice to such support consideration.

Short term extension

A sitting director may have their appointment term extended by a period of under 12 months on a onetime basis where there is an identified need, such as a recruitment delay or transition plan. A re-appointment extension of under 12 months may be approved by the appointing Minister, without seeking Cabinet endorsement in certain circumstances³.

Where applicable, Treasury will initiate this approval process following consultation with the Chair and appointing Minister.

2.2 Board skills matrix

Mandatory

2. A board skills matrix covering all directors must be provided to Treasury at the planning phase of the recruitment process.

Guidance

To ensure the board's composition has the right skills, experience and knowledge mix, the Chair should develop and maintain a board skills matrix. The board skills matrix is used to:

- identify the desired skills and experience of the board as a whole
- ensure the board composition takes account of the board strategy or key issues facing the organisation
- show under relevant headings how these maps against each sitting director
- provide the basis for the Chair's and/or the board's Nomination Committee's recommendations of skills required for any upcoming appointments
- support Treasury advice to the appointing Minister.

Disclosure of an individualised skills matrix for all board directors provides the appointing Minister with confidence that the board has the required skills mix.

2.3 Board diversity

Mandatory

3. The appointment process must have regard to any gender or other diversity targets established by Government.

Guidance

Appointments to NSW Government boards must reflect the diversity of the NSW community as a whole to the extent reasonable. Particular attention should be given to the representation of women. Opportunities to appoint people from diverse backgrounds should also be actively explored.

The gender diversity targets set by the Treasurer for SOC and PFC boards are:

- no less than 40 per cent of board director positions filled by women on each SOC and PFC board
- overall, 50 per cent of all SOC and PFC board director positions combined, filled by women.

³ NSW Government Boards and Committees Guidelines, section 5.1.

These targets must be considered and addressed during the planning, selection and approval phases of the board appointment process. A gender diversity strategy is to be included in brief to the appointing Minister seeking approval for action to be taken to fill the board vacancy or re-appointment.

There may be a period on any board where targets are not met for a short period of time. The gender diversity strategy provided to the appointing Minister must address how and when the targets will be met.

Treasury publishes gender diversity statistics for SOC and PFC boards on its website.

3. Key governance elements

The following provides guidance on how Treasury manages important governance elements that support merit-based selection, transparency and documentation of the board appointment process.

3.1 Candidate identification and advertising

Mandatory

4. The appointing Minister must approve the strategy and approach for candidate identification.

Guidance

Treasury will seek the appointing Minister's approval for the strategy and approach to filling upcoming board vacancies before recruitment commences.

The process to identify potential candidates for board vacancies should be fit-for-purpose and targeted to reach suitability qualified candidates, particularly where specialised expertise or knowledge is required. This includes using a recruitment partner, advertising and seeking nominations from involved parties (e.g. Business Nominations Sub-Committee or appointing Ministers).

The recruitment partner's expertise and broader exposure to the marketplace is critical in sourcing and assessing potential director candidates for boards of Applicable Businesses.

Board vacancies will be advertised through one or more channels, with consideration given to the effectiveness, appropriateness and reach of the selected channel.

Treasury will advise the appointing Minister of the proposed approaches when seeking approval for action to be taken to fill the board vacancy.

Recruitment alternative when an unforeseen vacancy occurs

From time to time an unforeseen board vacancy may arise with limited ability to undertake a full recruitment process in accordance with the practice guides due to urgency or other exigent circumstances (for example, due to the resignation of a director).

Treasury, in consultation with the Chair, may recommend to the appointing Minister that a selection of candidates to interview be identified from suitable candidates assessed by recent Board Candidate Assessment Committees (BCACs) (see section 3.2).

In this situation, Treasury with the Chair, may interview candidates who were previously assessed by a BCAC for a recent board vacancy where the candidate was identified as:

- suitable for the position but not the preferred, or
- suitable for another board role but not the present vacancy interviewed for.

Treasury will then convene a BCAC to interview the candidates in accordance with section 3.2.

3.2 Board Candidate Assessment Committee

Mandatory

5. The appointing Minister must approve the Board Candidate Assessment Committee before the panel is convened.

Guidance

As part of the brief approving the strategy for candidate identification (see section 3.1 above and Practice Guides 1 and 3), for all new appointments the appointing Minister will be asked to approve convening a Board Candidate Assessment Committee (BCAC). The BCAC is responsible for the merit-based assessment of potential candidates.

In accordance with the Appointment Standards, this assessment panel must include at least one person with relevant subject matter knowledge, comprise both men and women, and be approved by the appointing Ministers before the BCAC is convened. The subject matter expert will typically be the Treasury Deputy Secretary with responsibility for SOCs and PFCs (in the case of a Chair appointment) and the Chair of the business (in the case of a director) but may also include an external subject matter expert.

Composition of the BCAC

The BCAC composition for business Chair vacancies consists of:

- Deputy Secretary (or delegate), Treasury [chairs the BCAC]
- Deputy Secretary (or delegate), Premier's Department OR The Cabinet Office [member]
- Treasury or Premier's Department OR The Cabinet Office senior executive level officer [member]
- Outgoing Chair of Business, or nominated director of the Business [optional, subject to appointing Minister approval] [member]
- Recruitment Partner [observer].

The BCAC composition for business director vacancies consists of:

- Executive Director (or delegate), Treasury [chairs the BCAC]
- Chair of Business, or in the absence of, a nominated director of the Business [member]
- Treasury or Premier's Department OR The Cabinet Office senior executive level officer [member]
- Recruitment Partner [observer].

Treasury provides secretariat support to the BCAC.

Where individual members of the BCAC have not yet been identified at the time of submission of the brief to the appointing Minister, it will identify the position of the proposed panel member (e.g. a senior executive level officer from Treasury).

Role of the BCAC

The BCAC conducts interviews of shortlisted candidates.

The BCAC's written report summarises the suitability of candidates for the respective board, considering the skills and experience sought for a particular role. The BCAC will identify candidates as either:

- the preferred candidate(s)
- suitable for the position but not the preferred candidate(s)
- suitable for another board role but not the present vacancy interviewed for, or
- not suitable.

The BCAC report is prepared by Treasury for BCAC endorsement and provided to the appointing Minister for their consideration.

3.3 Candidate background checks

Mandatory

6. Probity checks must be completed by the business before Cabinet consideration of the Minister's proposed appointee, with written confirmation to Treasury of the outcome.

Guidance

It is imperative that directors appointed to the board of government businesses are of good character. Ensuring probity checks are undertaken prior to the appointment of the candidate reduces this reputational risk.

Probity checks must be completed for:

- new appointments, after the appointing Minister approves the proposed candidate(s) to be considered by Cabinet and before Cabinet consideration of the preferred candidate
- re-appointments, before Cabinet consideration to re-appoint the candidate.

Probity checks are undertaken and paid for by the business in consultation with Treasury. The business must provide written confirmation to Treasury of the outcome of the probity checks.

If probity checks identify issues requiring management or further consideration, those issues will be raised with Treasury in the first instance to determine the appropriate response, including any advice that should be provided to the appointing Minister.

If the issues cannot be resolved Treasury will, in consultation with the Chair, provide advice to the appointing Minister on the recommended next steps, including, if necessary not proceeding with a proposed appointment.

The agreed set of probity checks for potential board directors are set out in Practice Guide 4. Treasury may update these requirements from time to time to reflect current best practice.

3.4 Candidate care

Guidance

Treasury's aim is to ensure a high-quality experience for all board candidates to provide a positive experience with Treasury and the NSW Government more broadly. This is important for both attracting the best candidates and for the reputation of the NSW Government. This requires coordinated and clear engagement with candidates from the point of initial approach, through to appointment.

Treasury's recruitment partner is critical to candidate care as they act as the primary conduit between Treasury, the business and candidates throughout the board appointment process.

Treasury supports the recruitment partner by providing clear guidance on what can be communicated to candidates at various stages of the process.

Where there is an intention to seek re-appointment of a director, Treasury acts as the primary conduit with the business on behalf of the director throughout the re-appointment process.

3.5 Board director information disclosure

Guidance

Director appointments to NSW Government boards are matter of public interest. Applicable Businesses should ensure that they include information about their board and directors on their website. This provides transparency to the public on the skills and expertise that directors bring to the board and the term of their appointment.

The following information should be made public:

- name and position on board (i.e. chair or non-executive director)
- qualifications and experience (summary)
- current appointment term: start and expiry date
- initial appointment: start date.

3.6 Recruitment partner appointment

Guidance

As noted above, external, expert support to the board appointment process provides significant value to the NSW Government. Engagement of a recruitment partner is consistent with public and private sector best practice and ensures access to the widest range of high-quality director candidates.

The recruitment partner is engaged by Treasury through a competitive tender process, consistent with NSW Government Procurement Policy Framework.

The recruitment partner's services are paid for by the Applicable Business for each new appointment.

Practice Guide 4: Probity Checks

Probity checks during planning phase for new director appointments

General probity checks assess whether a potential candidate's credentials are true and accurate and whether the candidate is of good character, and should be undertaken prior to nomination.

These checks are conducted by the recruitment partner.

Informing candidates

Short listed candidates for interview are to be informed that the proposed appointee will be subject to probity checks. The proposed appointee may be requested to provide relevant personal information, often at short notice, to enable their probity checks to be undertaken.

Probity checks during approval phase

More robust probity procedures must be undertaken for the Minister's proposed appointee before they are recommended to Cabinet for consideration of appointment. Robust probity procedures give the NSW Government and the public sufficient confidence that an appointee has a history of personal integrity and a demonstrated capacity to manage their financial and business affairs.

These checks are the responsibility of the business.

The following mandatory probity checks are to be carried out for the Minister's proposed appointee prior to recommendation for appointment and re-appointment:

- national police checks
- ASIC Banned and Disqualified register search
- ASIC Enforceable Undertakings register search
- Australian Financial Security Authority National Personal Insolvency Index search
- media check including social media
- international criminal record checks if a candidate has lived in an overseas country for more than 12 months, or has resided in Australia for less than 12 months
- a check of the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority's (APRA's) list of individuals disqualified from holding prudentially significant roles within APRA-regulated entities under the provisions of the Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993 and the Insurance Act 1973
- a check of APRA's list of Enforceable Undertakings accepted from people or corporations under the provisions of the Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993 and the Insurance Act 1973

The business, in consultation with Treasury, determines who it engages to undertake these probity checks. Businesses may arrange for probity checks to be undertaken by the Recruitment Partner on behalf of the business.

The Practice Guides include an indicative timing for probity checks. There may be situations where obtaining the results take longer due to certain complexities.

Probity check information provided for approval phase

The outcome of the probity checks by the business must be provided to Treasury.
